Forward Looking Statements

This Private Offering Memorandum contains various forward-looking statements that are based on our beliefs as well as assumptions made by and information currently available to us. When used in this Private Offering Memorandum, the words "believe", "expect", "anticipate", "estimate" and similar expressions are intended to identify forward-looking statements. Such statements may include statements regarding and are subject to certain risks, uncertainties and assumptions which could cause actual results to differ materially from projections or estimates. Factors which could cause actual results to differ materially are discussed at length under the heading "Risk Factors". Should one or more of the enumerated risks or uncertainties materialize, or should underlying assumptions prove incorrect, actual results may vary materially from those anticipated, estimated or projected. Investors should not place undue reliance on forward-looking statements, all of which speak only as of the date made.

RISK FACTORS

Investors should be aware that this offering involves certain risks, including those described below, which could adversely affect the value of our common stock. We do not make, nor has it authorized any other person to make, any representation about the future market value of our common stock. In addition to the other information contained in this Private Offering Memorandum, the following factors should be considered carefully in evaluating an investment in our common stock.

RISKS RELATED TO THIS OFFERING

The price of the shares of common stock we are offering has been arbitrarily determined.

The price of the shares of common stock we are offering does not bear any relationship to our assets, book value, or any other recognized criteria of value and should not be regarded as an objective valuation or an indication of any future resale value of our common stock.

There is only limited market for our common stock.

Currently, there is only limited market for our common stock. As a result, investors in this offering may have difficulty selling their shares in the public market.

Disclosure requirements pertaining to penny stocks may reduce the level of trading activity in the market for our common stock and investors may find it difficult to sell their shares.

Trades of our common stock are subject to Rule 15c-9 of the Securities and Exchange Commission, which rule imposes certain requirements on broker/dealers who sell securities subject to the rule to persons other than established customers and accredited investors. For transactions covered by the rule, brokers/dealers must make a special suitability determination for purchasers of the securities and receive the purchaser's written agreement to the transaction prior to sale. The Securities and Exchange Commission also has rules that regulate broker/dealer practices in connection with transactions in "penny stocks". Penny stocks generally are equity securities with a price of less than $5.00 (other than securities registered on certain national securities exchanges or quoted on the NASDAQ system, provided that current price and volume information with respect to transactions in that security is provided by the exchange or system). The penny stock rules require a broker/ dealer, prior to a transaction in a penny stock not otherwise exempt from the rules, to deliver a standardized risk disclosure document prepared by the Commission that provides information about penny stocks and the nature and level of risks in the penny stock market. The broker/dealer also must provide the customer with current bid and offer quotations for the penny stock, the compensation of the broker/dealer and its salesperson in the transaction, and monthly account statements showing the market value of each penny stock held in the customer's account. The bid and offer quotations, and the broker/dealer and salesperson compensation information, must be given to the customer orally or in writing prior to effecting the transaction and must be given to the customer in writing before or with the customer's confirmation.

Consequently, the penny stock rules may affect the ability of broker-dealers to sell shares of common stock and may affect the ability of shareholders to sell their shares in the secondary market, as compliance with such rules may delay and/or preclude certain trading transactions. The rules could also have an adverse effect on the market price of our common stock. These disclosure requirements may have the effect of reducing the level of trading activity in the secondary market for our common stock. Many brokers may be unwilling to engage in transactions in our common stock because of the added disclosure requirements, thereby making it more difficult for shareholders to dispose of their shares. You may also find it difficult to obtain accurate information about, and/or quotations as to the price of our common stock.

There will be restrictions on the resale of the common stock sold in this Offering

The Securities sold in this Offering will be “restricted securities” as that term is defined in Rule 144 of the Securities Act of 1933 (the “Act”). They may be resold only in compliance with Rule 144 or some other exemption from registration under the Act, unless the securities are covered by an effective registration statement under the Act. Rule 144 provides, in essence, that a person who is not affiliated with us may, approximately after one year after the date of acquisition of the O&G assets (see “Proposed Business”), sell restricted securities without restriction, provided we are current in our filings with the Securities and Exchange Commission. There can be no assurance that Rule 144 or any other exemption will be available for the resale of the Securities purchased by investors in this Offering.

We have agreed to file a registration statement with the Securities and Exchange Commission so that the shares of common stock sold in this offering can be resold in the public market. Although we will use our best efforts to file the registration statement and to cause the registration statement to be declared effective, we cannot unconditionally guarantee that any registration statement will be declared effective by the Securities and Exchange Commission. In addition, recent interpretations by the Securities and Exchange Commission may limit the number of shares which we can register. As a result, it is possible that all of the securities purchased by investors in this offering may not be included in the registration statement.

Possible purchases of shares by our affiliates.

The shares of common stock we are offering by means of this Private Offering Memorandum may be purchased by persons associated with us or with broker dealers participating in the Offering.

We do not intend to pay any cash dividends on our common stock.

We have never declared or paid any cash dividends on our common stock and we do not anticipate paying any cash dividends in the foreseeable future. Prospective investors should not purchase these securities with any view toward the receipt of dividends.

Your ownership could be diluted by future issuances of our stock, options, warrants or other securities.

Your ownership in our shares may be diluted by future issuances of capital stock or the exercise of outstanding or to be issued options, warrants or convertible notes to purchase our common stock. In particular, we may sell securities in the future in order to finance or expand our operations without obtaining the approval of the holders of our common stock.

RISKS RELATED TO OUR BUSINESS

We may not be successful in completing the acquisition of the oil and gas assets.

The amount of capital raised in this or other offerings will dictate the amount of O&G assets bought. We will need to raise capital these assets. The acquisition of the O&G assets is subject to a number of other conditions and there can be no assurance that we will be able to raise capital complete any acquisitions

Our industry is sensitive to changing economic conditions and various other factors. Business and results of operations are substantially dependent on commodity price levels and the level of gross profit margins that can be achieved on the sales of new wells, all of which are difficult to predict.

Many factors affect sales of O&G and an O&G's gross profit margins, including the economy, fuel prices, credit availability, interest rates, consumer confidence, and the success of third-party sales platforms, the level of personal discretionary spending, unemployment rates, the state of housing markets, production levels and capacity, the rate of inflation, currency exchange rates, intense industry competition, the prospects of war, other international conflicts or terrorist attacks, severe weather events, product quality, affordability and innovation. Changes in interest rates can significantly impact industry pricing and product affordability due to the direct relationship between interest rates and commodity prices, a critical factor for many buyers, and the impact interest rates have on borrowing capacity and disposable income. In addition, volatility in commodity prices can cause rapid shifts in price which are difficult to accommodate even with hedging strategies.

If production exceeds the industry selling rate, production margins could be adversely impacted by excess supply. Further, the performance of a particular company may differ from the performance of industry due to particular economic conditions and other factors in the geographic markets in which it operates. Economic conditions and the other factors described above may also materially adversely impact sales.

Our operations are subject to extensive governmental laws and regulations. If the Company is found to be in violation of, or subject to, liabilities under any of these laws or regulations, or if new laws or regulations are enacted that adversely affect operations, its business, operating results and prospects could suffer.

Our industry is subject to a wide range of federal, state, and local laws and regulations, such as those relating to sales, finance and insurance, advertising, licensing, consumer protection, consumer privacy, escheatment, anti-money laundering, environmental, health and safety, and employment practices. With respect to sales, finance and insurance, and advertising, we are subject to various laws and regulations, the violation of which could subject the Company to consumer class action or other lawsuits or governmental investigations and adverse publicity, in addition to administrative, civil, or criminal sanctions. With respect to employment practices, we are subject to various laws and regulations, including complex federal, state, and local wage and hour and anti-discrimination laws. The violation of laws and regulations to which we are subject also can result in administrative, civil, or criminal sanctions, which may include a cease and desist order against the subject operations or even revocation or suspension of a license to operate the subject business, as well as significant fines and penalties. In addition, we may be subject to broad liabilities arising out of contamination at currently and formerly owned or operated facilities, at locations to which hazardous substances were transported from such facilities, and at locations related to entities formerly affiliated with the Company. Failure to comply with applicable laws and regulations or the unfavorable resolution of one or more lawsuits or governmental investigations may have an adverse effect on a Company's business.

Pressure from the federal agencies could lead to significant changes in the manner that we are allowed to operate, and while it is difficult to predict how any such changes might impact a Company, any adverse changes could have a material adverse impact on a Company's business and results of operations.

We are subject to interest rate risk in connection with their commodities and loans that could have a material adverse effect on their profitability.

Some of the debt held is subject to variable interest rates. Variable interest rate debt will fluctuate with changing market conditions and, accordingly, interest expense will increase if interest rates rise. In addition, inventory carrying cost may increase due to changes in interest rates, inventory levels, and lower economic activity. A significant increase in interest rates will usually have a material adverse effect on our business.

New laws, regulations, or governmental may affect the Company's ability to produce cost-effective products that consumers demand, which could adversely impact our business.

Companies such as ours are subject to government-mandated standards, which continue to change and become more stringent over time. These and other laws and regulations could materially adversely affect the ability of us to produce, and our ability to sell assets at profitable prices.

There is no commitment by any person to purchase any of the shares which we are offering and there can be no assurance that any shares will be sold.

MARKET FOR OUR COMMON STOCK

Our common stock is traded in the OTC Markets under the symbol XFUL. We intend to re-domicile the corporation in Colorado, officially changing the name of the corporation from Converde Energy USA, Inc to American Energy Partners, Inc. Thereafter we intend to change the trading symbol of the company.

PROPOSED BUSINESS

We were incorporated in Nevada on October 12, 2004. We plan to re-domicile in Colorado early 2017. Between 2011 and 2016 we were involved in the exploration and development of water rights in Pennsylvania including the treatment of these assets and others.

We built a pipeline of pending contracts and in August of 2016 we began investigating the possibility of acquiring oil and gas properties to vertically integrate the Company.

In October of 2016, the Company received a verbal approval from the Susquehanna River Basin Commission in partnership with EPCAMR to commence the first three phases of due diligence on the Mocanaqua Tunnel. The first three phases have a value of approximately $85,000.

On November 21, 2016, the Company signed a non-binding letter of intent to aid in financing and supply multiple treatment systems for Stony Creek Properties. The purchase price for landfill asset is cash of $2,000,000 with subsequent funding for permits and construction. The landfill is believed to be able to support in excess of $100,000,000 of cash flow over a ten year time period.

On December 15, 2016, the Company signed a non-binding letter of intent to supplying multiple treatment systems for Area 2 Energy in their coal slurry operations and O&G operations. The value of this deal is unknown as of this date.

As of December 2016 the Company has a developed a pipeline of deal flow with over 20 current opportunities. The projects revenues range in size from under $100,000 to over $1,000,000, None of which have been substantiated.

The acquisition of assets is subject to a number of conditions, including the execution of a definitive agreements containing customary representations and warranties.

The following shows the pro-forma gross revenue from the potential assets and net income before taxes less all capital expenditures for the year ending December 31, 2017 and 2018. These numbers are dependent upon Private Equity participation and successful public market capital rises.

	Proforma December 31, 2017	Proforma December 31, 2018
Gross Revenue	$ 1,717,661	$ 3,435,322
Net income
Less CapEx	$ (18,797,363)	$ (17,595,275)

Potential investors should note that the foregoing numbers are unaudited and the audited numbers could be significantly different than the unaudited numbers.

The O&G Industry

Operations

Oil & Gas Companies (sometimes referred to as “Oil & Gas” or “O&G”) acquire new properties from either directly the landowner or another O&G Company or through liquidation events. O&G Companies generally acquire producing properties from another O&G Company, as well as through auctions, lease terminations, and other sources. An O&G Company can also acquire mineral rights from landowners and develop the land into producing properties.

O&G assets often vary depending on topography, geography and the strategies put in place by the O&G Company. O&G wells can be deep or shallow. The age of the well is also a determinate of how much revenue the well will produce, also known as the depletion rate.

O&G assets also vary in the quality or desirability of the commodity. For instance, gas wells in certain regions have dry gas as opposed to wet gas that carries a higher profit margin historically.

Agreements with Transmission Companies

O&G Companies typically enter into agreements with major pipelines and distributors. These agreements contain provisions relating to the sale of the commodity, most importantly at specified prices. These agreements contain certain requirements pertaining to operating performance (with respect to matters such as sales volume), which, are not satisfied, adversely impact a Company's ability to make further acquisitions or could result in a Company being compelled to take certain actions, such as divesting a significantly underperforming wells. Additionally, these agreements set limits (nationally, regionally, and in local markets) on the volume of O&G that a well can pump into distribution. Some of these agreements give the Company or distributor the right to acquire at fair market value or a predetermined price.

Regulations

O&G Companies operate in a highly regulated industry. A Company must obtain various licenses in order to operate its businesses, including insurance. Numerous laws and regulations govern a Company's conduct of business, including those relating to sales, operations, finance and insurance, advertising, and employment practices. These laws and regulations include state laws and regulations, environmental laws, consumer protection laws, privacy laws, escheatment laws, anti-money laundering laws, and other extensive laws and regulations applicable to O&G, as well as a variety of other laws and regulations. These laws also include federal and state wage and hour, anti-discrimination, and other employment practices laws. Furthermore, new laws and regulations, particularly at the federal level, may be enacted that could also affect a Company.

Competition

O&G Companies operate in a highly competitive industry. The principal competitive factors in the O&G business are location, service, price and volume. Competitors include a large number of well-capitalized competitors that have extensive O&G managerial experience and strong producing properties and significant acreage under control. O&G Companies face competition from several public companies that operate a vast number of wells on a regional or national basis and private companies that operate wells on a regional or national basis that hold acreage also. O&G Companies compete with other operators in the exploration and production space.

Seasonality

In a stable environment, O&G assets generally experience higher volumes of sales in the first and third quarters of each year due in part to consumer buying trends. Demand for O&G is generally higher during the winter months than in other seasons, particularly in regions of the United States where people may be subject to adverse winter conditions. Revenue and operating results may be impacted significantly from quarter to quarter by changing economic conditions and actual or threatened severe weather events.

Since the sale of the Securities is not registered, the Securities will be restricted and may not be resold without registration, except under specific exemptions from the securities registration requirements.

Prior to the purchase of the Securities, each prospective investor will be required to represent in the Subscription Agreement that:

(f) Such investor is aware that the Securities have not been registered under the Securities Act of 1933, as amended, but rather are being offered in reliance upon an exemption from the registration requirements of that Act, and that the subsequent sale or other disposition of such Securities will require, in the absence of such registration, the satisfaction of such conditions as the Company may require;

(g) Such investor is aware that there is no market for the Company's common stock at this time, and there is no assurance that a market will ever develop. Resale Restrictions

The Securities issued in this Offering will be "restricted securities" as that term is defined in Rule 144 of the General Rules and Regulations under the Securities Act of 1933 ("the Act"), and may, in the future, be sold only in compliance with Rule 144 or some other exemption from registration under the Act, the availability of which must be established by the holder to the satisfaction of the Company, unless the securities are covered by an effective registration statement under the Act. In addition, any shares issuable upon the conversion of the notes exercise of the Series B Warrants (included as part of the Units), unless registered, will also be restricted securities. Rule 144 provides, in essence, that a person who is not affiliated with the Company may, after one year from the date of acquisition, sell restricted securities without restriction. There can be no assurance that Rule 144 or any other exemption will be available for the resale of the Securities purchased by investors in this Offering.

In order to facilitate compliance with the limitations on the resale of the securities purchased by investors in this Offering: (i) a legend will be placed on the certificates stating that the securities have not been registered under the Act and setting forth the restrictions on transferability and sale; (ii) a stop transfer notation will be made with respect to the securities in the appropriate records of the Company; and, (iii) stop transfer instructions will be issued to the Company's transfer agent.

Registration Rights

Upon the completion of this offering, the Company plans to file a registration statement with the Securities and Exchange Commission so that the shares of common stock issuable upon the conversion of the notes, as well as the shares of common stock issuable upon the exercise of the Series A warrants, can be resold in the public market.

DESCRIPTION OF SECURITIES

By means of this Private Offering Memorandum we are offering up to 10,000,000 shares of common stock at a price of $.50 per share. Common Stock

We are authorized to issue 5,000,000,000 shares of common stock. Holders of common stock are each entitled to cast one vote for each share held of record on all matters presented to shareholders. Cumulative voting is not allowed; hence, the holders of a majority of our outstanding shares of common stock can elect all directors.

Holders of common stock are entitled to receive such dividends as may be declared by our Board out of funds legally available and, in the event of liquidation, to share pro rata in any distribution of our assets after payment of liabilities. Our directors are not obligated to declare a dividend. It is not anticipated that dividends will be paid in the foreseeable future.

Holders of common stock do not have preemptive rights to subscribe to any additional shares we may issue in the future. There are no conversion, redemption, sinking fund or similar provisions regarding the common stock. All outstanding shares of common stock are fully paid and non-assessable.

We have Series B common stock authorized of which 56,000,000 shares were outstanding. The Class B Stock has a dividend and liquidation preference to our common stock, has ten votes per share on all matters requiring a shareholder vote.

Preferred Stock

We are authorized to issue 750,000 shares of preferred stock. Shares of preferred stock may be issued from time to time in one or more series as may be determined by our Board of Directors. The voting powers and preferences, the relative rights of each such series and the qualifications, limitations and restrictions of each series will be established by the Board of Directors. Our directors may issue preferred stock with multiple votes per share and dividend rights which would have priority over any dividends paid with respect to the holders of our common stock. The issuance of preferred stock with these rights may make the removal of management difficult even if the removal would be considered beneficial to shareholders generally, and will have the effect of limiting shareholder participation in transactions such as mergers or tender offers if these transactions are not favored by our management.

The Preferred Stock has a dividend and liquidation preference to our common stock, has ten votes per share on all matters requiring a shareholder vote, and each share is convertible into ten shares of our common stock at the election of the holder thereof. As of December 31, 2016, there were 21,382,184 shares of our Class A Preferred Stock issued and outstanding and held by 10 shareholders, two of which are our directors.

In December of 2016 the holders of the series B common stock and series A preferred shares agreed to cancel these shares in exchange for a newly designated preferred share the issuance of which will allow the holders to have liquidation preference of 30% of any sale of the Company and voting power of not less than 30% on any matter put forth to the common stockholders.

LEGAL PROCEEDINGS

We are not involved in any legal proceedings and we do not know of any legal proceedings which are threatened or contemplated.

INDEMNIFICATION

Our Bylaws authorize indemnification of a director, officer, employee or agent of the Company against expenses incurred by him in connection with any action, suit, or proceeding to which he is named a party by reason of his having acted or served in such capacity, except for liabilities arising from his own misconduct or negligence in performance of his duty. In addition, even a director, officer, employee, or agent of the Company' who was found liable for misconduct or negligence in the performance of his duty may obtain such indemnification if, in view of all the circumstances in the case, a court of competent jurisdiction determines such person is fairly and reasonably entitled to indemnification. Insofar as indemnification for liabilities arising under the Securities Act of 1933 may be permitted to directors, officers, or persons controlling the Company' pursuant to the foregoing provisions, the Company has been informed that in the opinion of the Securities and Exchange Commission, such indemnification is against public policy as expressed in the Act and is therefore unenforceable.
